Why exhibit?

In the wake of total development witnessed in the country, the State of Qatar is currently executing large-scale projects in the field of construction, buildings and investment throughout the country.

For example:

Gas projects:

By 2010, the State of Qatar is expected to become the world's leading supplier of Liquefied Natural Gas by exporting 42 million tonnes per annum.

The new Doha International Airport:

An airport with modern standards, which will have a capacity of 12 Million passengers per annum, will consolidate the State of Qatar as an important regional hub. Its first phase has been launched and the total cost effect is estimated as 2 billion US Dollars. The Ministry of Interior will shoulder the responsibility of security and safety requirements fully at the site.

Construction:

Other major construction projects are undergoing in the country such as towers, highways, industrial plants, shopping malls and many other modern facilities like The Pearl and Lusail projects as well as sports and educational cities.

Tourism and conferences:

The State of Qatar has become one of the major destinations in the Middle East for tourism and hosts many regional and international conferences.

All these modern projects and future plans require on a long-term basis huge capabilities and security equipment with high quality standards and participating in Milipol Qatar Exhibition is an effective way to achieve these aims.
